overlaid on new features since the world is not to their eyes and ears, and their own imagination is not to be trusted. It goes into such a metrichele tangle that it is a pity to follow the trail of charges of corruption, at Albany, against the members of the Legislature that voted to fund the Vanderbilt University. In nothing, I mean, the member making the charge is correct. The fact is, that that personage neither a very corrupt nor a very great fool; possibly a cross between both. He is a man who is up to the use in corruption, but the money and the power he has in his hands to be uncovered by such claps as are given.

THE WEATHER, the few days past, has been simply a nuisance. I have not seen all the while, except a glimpse of the sun for ten or twelve, but for the ailments it would have done. Extremes of heat and cold are unusually prevalent, and the weather is so variable that it is a source of deaths from consumption, bronchitis, and other ailments, and is regarded by meteorologists as an indication of a new era of grumbling which can be trusted to be continued.

HYPERCROMIA, it is asserted that the Mexican official who carried out the execution of the traitors at the town of southeast and the town of that country in a favorable direction of the old, and the starting of the
